Dear Mrs. Young,

When I discovered that your company was hiring a marketing manager, I knew I had to apply.

The position advertised by you sounds like a great match with the qualifications and skills that I have been able to acquire during my last job at Montana Marketing Ltd.

My duties ranged in scope from developing fast, secure, and responsive websites using HTML, CSS, PHP, MySQL, and JavaScript to the design and production process for all digital and printed content. I am a proven team player and leader. I worked in hand with a small team to create amazing experiences for our customers. I also led the team by training and helping in the development of better sales tactics, communications, and management.

Cumulatively, my experiences have taught me to perform my job with consistent accuracy and to provide strong evidence of specific accomplishments.

I have a passion for increasing revenue for each project I am involved with. I find creative solutions to all types of marketing budgets to help my projects grow in revenue tremendously.

I am great at leading a team, outsourcing or working alone. I know that every dollar has to be accounted for and must have high a ROI.

I would welcome the opportunity to meet with you to discuss my potential contributions to your company.

Kind regards

Paul Humphrey
